Port Burwell invites surfers to the beach

East Beach is now a hot spot

Visitors to Port Burwell's beach will be able to stay plugged in this summer as the village introduces wireless Internet to the shore.

Port Burwell's East Beach will be the first in Ontario to offer public Internet. Wireless access to the Internet will give visitors the opportunity to relax without having to be disconnected from the office. It will also provide a unique work environment for those who want to enjoy the shade while listening to the waves wash up on the sand.

"We've put a lot of effort into cleaning up our beach and making it welcoming to visitors," said Doug Lester, President of the Otter Valley Chamber of Commerce, "and wireless Internet is just one more thing we can offer."

According to Lester, wireless will appeal to those who enjoy reading and staying in touch while on the beach in a world becoming dominated by handhelds, iTouch, and now, the iPad.

Lester said, "I am excited about the support from our business community and our Municipal Council on this innovative initiative."

The Internet service is a partnership between the Municipality of Bayham and the Otter Valley Chamber of Commerce.
